

A Puppy is one of the most innocent beings on our planet. They are taken away from everything they know at such a young age. Imagining being taken away from your parents and siblings by a different species and forced into a world full of arbitrary rules that nobody can explain to you in your language. You probably wouldn't care about being the boss or taking over you'd simply just try and get by.

